

X-Series Lens Ports

XF-55

A small 6" flat element that can be used on its own or in combination with the X-Adapters.

XLF-75

A large 8" flat element designed to allow for the use of wide and standard zoom lenses when combined with X-Adapters.

XD-65

A small 6" dome element designed for use with ultra-wide and wide-angle lenses when combined with X-Adapters.

XLD-135

A large 8" dome element designed for use with many lenses either on its own or when combined with the X-Adapters.

XLD-12

The XLD-12" can be substituted for the XLD-135 for those looking to achieve the highest quality in their split shots or "above & below" images. If your lens is not listed please contact staff.

X Adapters

X-Adapters, when combined with the correct X-Port front lens port element, allow you to accommodate the physical length of your lens correctly.

Zoom Gears

Designed to allow full use of the focal range on listed zoom lenses from Canon, Nikon, Sony, Fujifilm, Sigma and more.

Above Water Ports:

Typically flat ports, above water ports are recommended to make managing water droplets easier due to the smaller surface area of these ports. Whilst still able to be used underwater, the above water recommendations are best suited for photographic requirements when shooting at or above the water's surface.

Over/Under & Underwater Ports:

Due to the way light properties work underwater, dome ports are typically recommended for wide angle lenses in order to achieve the best image quality. These ports can also be used above water as well as for capturing Over/Under style image compositions. Dome ports can be paired with adapters to achieve the most desirable distance between the lens element and the dome port element. For lenses longer than 35mm in focal length, a flat port (or above water port) is typically recommended.

Adapted Lenses:

Please note that unless specifically listed, the recommendations below are for lenses that use their native mounts only. If you intend to use an adapter to accommodate a non-native lens onto another mount, please contact our staff to confirm the correct lens port combination. Please also note it is not possible to use Zoom Gears on lenses that require an adapter unless listed.
